The Inner Wheel Rafflesia members decided to have a beach clean up on a beautiful Sunday morning followed by a brunch. We were quite shocked to find out that apart from expected plastics strewn all over but there were actually rubbish dumping spots where even broken furniture were purposely thrown there. The poor trash management in the islands across the Tanjung Aru Beach also resulted in much waste being washed ashore. Though there are many efforts put up by various community groups, we believe awareness needs to come through home and school education from young. Perhaps this would set us thinking what we can do next. Nevertheless, we are certainly going to do this activity again and invite many more to join us.
